Club Captains Report: Spring into Oxford

Murray Marshall and I started the day off by handing out USA Day flyers to the attendees at Rodders Breakfast at Kustom Cars Club.

We had great crowd of people in 8 cars that followed the blue Chevy from McLean's Island to Oxford. It was a pleasant drive and the scenery was stunning. They positioned us in a very prominent place, on the perimeter inside the circle. We caught up with a few others from the club who made their own way there.

The weather didn't look too promising, but the further away from the coast we went the brighter it became. It was overcast when we first arrived in Oxford but the sun soon came out to make it very pleasurable day.

It was a low key day and gave everyone the chance to look around the stalls, sit and relax and have a good catch up chat, which is something all of us need, but hardly ever get because of our busy lives.

We even went downtown Oxford to the Sunday Farmers Market and of course stopped off at the Sheffield Pie shop before returning to the park (You can't go past the pie shop while you are in Oxford).

We enjoyed the day that much, that three car loads of us stayed and we were asked by the custodian to lock the gate when we left. He had expected to lock up about 4pm, we finally left at 5.30pm.

I caught up with one of my childhood neighbours that I haven't seen for about 45 years. He owns the house next door to Pearson Park, where the show was held. We went over and saw the Bedford he is restoring, it was a good talking point. Catching up with him was quite a bonus. He is one of the McIver's Oxford Community Men's Shed members.

Until next month safe cruising
